Public Health Practicum (PH 195W) is an 8-unit required course for those majoring in Public Health Policy or Public Health Science. The course allows students to gain hands-on experience in the field of public health through a 100-hour internship at an approved site. A complete list of approved internship sites may be found in the Public Health Practicum Catalog.

Students are responsible for obtaining an internship from a site in the Public Health Practicum Catalog by contacting, applying, and interviewing with organizations of their choosing that are aligned with their professional and career goals. In addition, students are responsible for submitting all required forms on or prior to quarterly deadlines to ensure placement in the course that accompanies the internship.

In order to be able to take the course, students must be in the Public Health Sciences or Public Health Policy major, have completed Public Health 1, Public Health 2, and Lower-Division Writing. Due to limited internships and course spaces, priority for this course is given to graduating seniors.
